

FY17 Business Budget

Besides the Federal grants that ILEAS possesses, there is a Business Account where non-Federal funds are located. Revenue into this account are from ILEAS Training Center rentals and subscriptions, dues, conference, Foundation grants and miscellaneous sources. ILEAS uses the business Account to pay for services and equipment not eligible to be paid for by Federal funds.

The proposed budget for the Business Account is attached for review by the Board. Also included is the update salary schedule for all ILEAS employees. The new Federal rules regarding the exempt staff minimum salary to earn overtime does not affect ILEAS.

Requested Board Action

Staff requests that the Board approve the FY17 Business Budget as presented.

Communications Program Update

An update of the Communications Program activities:

What has been done to date:

- the Starcom21 user fees have been billed and paid. Starcom21 for 2,500 radio user fees are now good until June 30, 2017.
- the process of identifying what 200-ish agencies that will retain individual user licenses has been completed and they have been notified.
- The letter/email notifications of the termination of StarCom21 user fees for other agencies has been mailed and sent. Russ Gentry is working those responses.
- both ILEAS and IEMA inspectors audited the radio equipment being stored at the Wauconda Fire Department and transported to ILEAS a large amount of that equipment for inventory and inspection.
- A Contractor, JW Chaney, LLC., has been selected and has begun the process of a complete equipment inventory and assessment. We anticipate his report by the end of the summer.
- Using FFY14 remaining funds, ILEAS has purchased:
 - 2 portable, inflatable heavy lift radio towers (light towers) complete with mobile repeaters
 - Four solar generators
 - Three satellite radios

What needs to be done next:

- Complete the equipment assessment which will provide the basis for:
 - equipment purchasing decisions in both FFY15 and FFY16.
 - Cache radio distribution
 - Training needs both for the Strategic Technology Reserve (STR) group and the PSAP's
- Begin the development of the Regional Technology Support Teams
- Determine what to do with the surplus Starcom21 radios that are being returned

Requested Board Action

No Board action is anticipated.

Legislative Update

An update on ILEAS proposed legislation is as follows.

Making the Homeland Security Emergency Preparedness Trust Fund a “Continuing Appropriation”

Bill #: HB6042
Sponsor: Rep. Donald Moffitt (R – Galesburg)
Status: Held in Rules Committee

ILEAS proposed a change to the enabling statute which created the Homeland Security Emergency Preparedness Trust Fund to make that Fund a “continuing appropriation.” This Fund consists only of Federal grant money and NO State money. Still being held in the Rules Committee by Speaker Madigan.

ILEAS, MABAS and Emergency Management Funding

Bill #: HB5647
Sponsor: Rep’s Donald Moffitt (R – Galesburg), Elaine Nekritz (D-Buffalo Grove), Robert Pritchard (R-Sycamore)
Status: First Reading then assigned to be held in Rules Committee

Bill #: SB2592
Sponsor: Senator Pamela Althoff (R-McHenry), Senator Anthony Munoz (D-Chicago)
Status: Assigned to the State Government and Veterans Affairs Committee – Postponed

There are two identical companion bills – one in the Senate and one in the House. This is the same language as last year. At this time, there are two official opponents – the Secretary of State and the Transportation for Illinois Coalition (TIC). The TIC consists of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, General contractors, Asphalt Pavement Association, Coal Association, Construction Industry Council, etc. etc. Director Page, Assistant Director Joe Cluchey (MABAS) and John Millner met with the Transportation Coalition. They are still opposed, but by the end of the meeting they were warming to the idea. No movement as of yet.

Drones

The language ILEAS proposed modifies the Freedom From Drone Surveillance Act to account for the use of a drone during training.

Bill #: SB2588
Sponsor: Senator Anthony Munoz (D-Chicago)
Status: Passed the Senate Criminal Law Committee – Rejected by the full Senate

Post July 1, 2016 Period

As was the case last year, after July 1st, ILEAS will not be able to draw down any Federal funds from the State because there is no budget agreement as of this writing (May 27th). ILEAS will be forced to again rely on reserves and the business loan line of credit to stay open. Staff will continue weekly assessments of our financial situation. We will, of course, work with Millner to support a bill that will pass through the Federal funds like last year. Stay tuned to the State budget situation for further.

ILEAS still has access to a line of credit at PNC Bank for $250,000 as a back-up.

Requested Board Action

No Board action is anticipated at this time.

Learning Management System (LMS)

Staff has begun the process of planning the Cybersecurity implementation as described above. The Cybersecurity grant requires that ILEAS provide training to local public safety employees as widely as possible. This will require the use of an online Learning Management System to deliver the Cyber training. However, ILEAS has always needed the ability to deliver online training for its own purposes. This includes, but is not limited to, Pre-deployment training for special teams, how to respond to and request mutual aid for supervisors, interoperable communications, staff training, etc.

Years ago, ILEAS was the fiduciary for the SABA LMS software that is still managed by the State Police. ISP maintains the servers and manages the software in-house. They have to pay SABA a “per user” license fee. There are no funds to purchase that many licenses. That is also the case for other government-owned LMS systems (WIU for the ILETSB Executive institute and U of I for IFSI).

We have spoken with CMS (Joe Anderson) and compared notes with what they are doing. They are looking at developing a master contract that can be available to locals (like ILEAS) through Joint Purchasing for a cyber LMS system. He mentioned several vendors that they were considering for State employees. There are lots of options available for the actual training curriculum it is the delivery system that is yet to be determined.

Additionally, ILEAS has developed a lot of training regarding mutual aid/self-deployment along with the StarCom21 online training, PRDs and other training that is sitting out there that has been developed over the years. Additionally, there is a need for a capability to provide pre-deployment training/briefing for special teams. For us, SABA is not an answer due to the user fees attached to it. In fact, when ISP moved it from Technology Command to the Academy, we had to hire Ronnie Studebaker back for three days or so to go to the Academy and show them how to work it. ITTF no longer financially supports it anymore. What is needed is a flexible system that has unlimited usage fee structure. We are exploring “software as a service” (SAAS) model where we do not own the software or have to have staff to maintain it or pay user fees – but can post secured online training with built in management tools where we own and can download the student data.

ILEAS has been through the decision-making process for about ten years and trying to coordinate with everyone else. An ITTF ad hoc committee was formed in 2014 to study the problem. The committee recommended that an LMS be developed for homeland security and available to all disciplines was necessary. However, the solution was elusive. Staff has recommended that ILEAS finally solve the problem for our own purposes if nothing else. We are exploring SAAS services. For a LOT less than owning and operating software, we can leverage larger LMS vendors which is used by dozens of large companies as well as international organizations and associations.

Staff has obtained an exhaustive and very detailed 600+ page report done in 2013 on the top 20 LMS systems available today. We are supplementing that with current studies and analyses of LMS systems. Since the ILETSB Executive institute uses WIU for LE and IFSI uses U of I for Fire, we do not recommend stepping into those wheelhouses or appear to usurp them. Ours would be limited to multi-disciplinary universal training such as emergency communications, cyber, mutual aid response protocols, specials teams training, etc. ILEAS staff has discussed this issue with IFSI and with ISP; neither of which objected and offered tentative support. A discussion with Director Fischer of ILETSB will take place prior to this Board meeting.

ILEAS has needed a real LMS from the beginning and now, we believe, is the time to get it done. Here is where we are in our first preliminary review. There are three basic choices (hybrids exist, but I am discounting them as overly complex for our use):

Current Government LMS System – these are largely university-related and not necessarily very cheap alternatives. Also, given the current state of the State budget, universities would most likely be easy to work with on a timely basis. This would require an MOU or contract with whatever university (which involves lead time) and we would stand in line for service with a host of other users, not the least of which were university students. My estimate from previously looking at this, it would take several months to implement and start posting training.

Client-Hosted Software – This is what we got into with SABA. ISP has the SABA system I believe to not be an option at this time. It was not that long ago, that we had to hire Ronnie Studebaker back and send him to the ISP Academy to teach them how to use it as they had no one then who knew. It is massively expensive and was sized only for LE, not for all of fire and EMA as well. ISP bought servers, consulting contractors to set them up, staff to maintain them and staff to do user support. This is the highest priced option and it takes a year or more lead time to get it done. Our experience with that model is not a good one. It might work well if you have one large entity that has complete control over its users (i.e., one company training its employees)

Software as a Service (SAAS) – There are many private companies that provide LMS software as a service. The vendor hosts the service, supports the users, provides content authoring capability, and provides downloads of the testing and student data so that analysis can be done locally. They manage evaluations, webinars, instructor led online training, certificates and CEUs/certificates. Also, with many of these systems, it takes from 3 to 6 weeks to implement.

After reading and looking at the options, on balance, staff fully supports the SAAS option. It provides the following advantages:

1. Quick implementation
2. Low overhead – no equipment, no staff, no network support
3. The vendor provides all user support–24/7 hotline, chat and email assistance so that we don't have to.
4. Low price – some of the SAAS companies have unlimited users/unlimited bandwidth options. We can avoid "per seat" user fees that many companies charge.
5. Flexible options for instructor, administrator and user level features already built in
6. Content authoring capability where the instructor can take a power point/word document and convert it into online curriculum. This avoids having to always engage a vendor like Adayana to develop SCORM-complaint training.
7. The ability to utilize the vendors' online catalogs of training that has already been developed and available as a client of the service.
8. The ability to walk away with our data and our curriculum at any time without having to lay off staff, reconfigure networks, etc.
9. One less cybersecurity aspect of ILEAS/MABAS/IESMA operations
10. ILEAS, IESMA and MABAS can also quickly throw pre-deployment briefing training for special teams up on an SAAS vendors site in hours. That is not readily available with government systems.

Staff looked at 20 vendors and done a written scoring evaluation. We have narrowed it down to three vendors that we will explore in detail and ask for proposals. Those are TOPYX, WebMentor LMS and ETHOS CE. TOPYX rated the highest in our estimation (as they did in 2014 when Ken Swails did a similar review). They have big clients, unlimited users/bandwidth and only cost around $35K-$39K annually with the options we may want. That is about 60 center per user for all police, fire and EMA in the State as opposed to the $5+ for the current SABA system. We will look at the other two, however, as they offer options that are attractive as well.

There are $190,000 in the FFY15 cyber grant for training. The cost for the LMS will most likely not exceed $40-45,000.

Requested Board Action

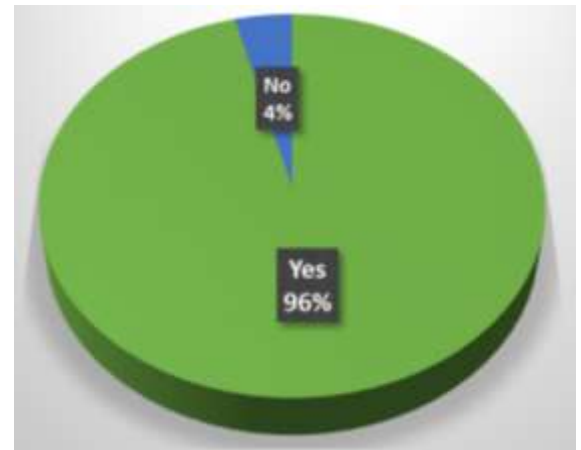

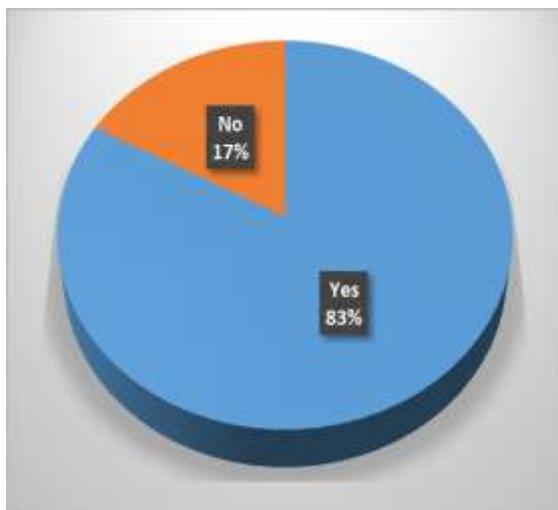

Staff requests the Board authorize staff to acquire and implement an online Learning Management System not to exceed $45,000 in cost.

Clearinghouse for Used Law Enforcement Equipment

Years ago, the previous ILEAS website had a rudimentary online bulletin board that was used by member agencies to exchange, sell or search for used law enforcement equipment. When ILEAS moved to the new website a few years ago, it was removed with the intent to revamp it and return it to use. Other priorities put that project towards the bottom of the list. Recently, however, the Urbana Police Department wanted ILEAS to advertise 13 fully equipped squad cars it wanted to sell. ILEAS put them on the home page and they sold within ten days. UPD donated $50 per car to the ILEAS Foundation for a total of $650.

Two questions about reviving this capability were put on the most recent survey of the membership:

1. Should ILEAS establish a surplus equipment website for member agencies to office used equipment for sale or donation?

2. If so, would you agree to a small fee for selling equipment (as opposed to donating it)?

As a result of that overwhelmingly positive response, ILEAS is currently completing development and testing an equipment exchange website capability. The plan is to establish the website and charge a small fee to be paid by the seller of equipment to be paid to the Foundation. This fee will be collected on the honor system. Questions and issues related to this will be managed by the Foundation Treasurer, Ralph Caldwell.
